

Puzzle 14: Funny Bones

Finding yourself in the crypt of the famous comedian “Red Skeleton” is no laughing matter, but it's a necessary task on your quest toward my Toy Box. The remains of the funnyman have been greatly disturbed. You would like to put things back in order, but is your ability to solve unusually cryptic clues (not to mention your knowledge of anatomy) up to snuff?

- The sixth tone after a smashed dish.
- Maid turned around?
- Remove the fifth from paper fasteners.
- Junior’s father fled from echoing repercussions, disoriented.
- “Remove” final letter away and reverse.
- Madagascan creature turns head six degrees left.
- Roman solves  $150 + A + 6 + 150 + E$ .
- Funny misspelling.
- Confused story with southern California city is shortened.
- Small lie to University of Los Angeles.
- Massachusetts crossed with Illinois and Louisiana.
- Abbreviation to be announced with eyes in second and fourth place.
- Tied up with “rope” this becomes imponderable.
- Crazy from The Moon.
- Austere with a sound of hesitation.
- Take 5th and 92nd elements away from nightmarish spirit.
- Paul’s AC fluctuates.
- Hammers the next to last one forward.

		16
	1	22
	12
	9		28
	17		19
	20
		21		26
			6			27
			15
				7
		4
11			13
		24					3
		10
	25					14
	2	5
18
			8	23			